

Advantages of Portable Storage

Portable storage is a convenient moving solution which is designed for serving storage issues for redesigning or shifting homes. Such solutions are provided under a number of names such as "moving pods", "mini warehouses" and "self storage". Though these products might be named different according to the preference of the company the product is more or less the same which is customized for the convenience of the user. Self storage and portable storage are similar products with the only difference being that portable storage is customized and delivered to your doorstep. The name and details of each solution are chosen by company representatives to suit theirs and the customers needs. Observingly the products are not very different and invented out of a single idea.

The rented storage containers are kept under lock and key by the tenant himself. The locking systems maybe provided by the storage company itself and needs to be checked for a brand by the customer. For your ease and requirement containers come in three different sizes 10,20 and 40. Primary requirement which you should check before booking a storage space is that it should rust resistant so your belongings are safe and rust free. Now with customer demand another product which has been fashioned is portable rooms which can be used as an extra office or a classroom. A slightly expensive portable storage option would be temperature controlled as well. Such temperature controlled storage containers can be used as extra classroom or security offices to watch over construction sites. The options and services provided would differ according to the company and the amount you are ready to shell out for a portable storage. Some companys offer delivery of containers to your doorstep. A storage facility is also an option if you would like to store your container till it is required. These facilities have state of the art security and ensure your containers safety from all possible problems. Though the use of the storage facility is an option up to the customer who might prefer keeping it near a construction site or near your residential premises. Most companies rent such containers for a one month period so you can pack and load the container at ease and without hurrying. Receipts to such rentals should be stored for tax write offs.

Company performance should be checked on the net. Negative reviews available on the net are useful tools to measure performance of each company and to help you to understand the drawbacks of each. Customer service is of primary importance for such companies and should be stressed on.

Most importantly the container needs to be checked on arrival for any faults. A container needs to be checked for rust, size, faulty doors and dents. Preliminary check of the container is vital so you are not held accountable for any damage present beforehand. These storage containers are easily available through internet and telephone, on booking it is generally delivered within 24 hours.

About the Author

Information related to moving, visit 1800PACKRAT.com.

Source: <http://www.seo27.com>